Water Industry

Office of Water Services

NOTICE OF PROPOSAL TO MODIFY THE CONDITIONS OF APPOINTMENT OF WATER AND SEWERAGE UNDERTAKERS IN ENGLAND AND WALES

WATER INDUSTRY ACT 1991, SECTION 13(2)

The Process

Any objection to, or representation about this proposal must be in writing and received by the Director General at the Office of Water Services, Centre City Tower, 7 Hill Street, Birmingham B5 4UA (Fax: 0121 625 3606) so as to be received by 5 p.m. on Thursday, 30th December 1999. Please quote Ref. LEG/32/2.

The Proposal

On 25th November 1999, the Director General of Water Services (the Director) published his determinations of the price limits (K factors) for each of the water and sewerage companies in England and Wales, covering the five years beginning on 1st April 2000.

Under the existing licences, each company has a right to ask for an adjustment of its price limit before the next five-yearly review, to take account of certain changed circumstances. However, an "interim determination" is only available if the financial effect of the change is material, as defined in the licence.

That materiality is found by first establishing what is the relevant expenditure (including changes of revenue) in each of the years in question. Those Base Cash Flows have then to be discounted, to produce Net Present Values. That calculation takes account of the financial impact of the change only until the intended date of the next general review of price limits (which will be every 5 years). The sum of those Net Present Values is then tested against a materiality threshold, which is not affected by these proposals.

The Director considers that, so far as operating expenditure (including changes in revenue) are concerned, this formula needs to be modified. Therefore, he proposes that the calculation should take account of the financial impact of each change by discounting it (see previous paragraph) over a 15-year period, instead of only over the balance of the five years covered by the price limits. This change should ensure that each company is entitled to a revision of its price limit, should the impact of any of these changes upon its operating costs and revenues imply a change of more than one per cent of total revenue (or about one percentage point on its K factors).

If implemented (see below, The Director's Approach) this change will apply to the calculation of the materiality of expenditure (including changes in revenue) reasonably attributable to the circumstances which are already specified in each company's licence (which are not being changed). It will also apply to three matters which, the Director has told the companies, he has not taken into account in his 25th November determinations of their price limits. These Notified Items have all arisen from provisions in (or under) the Water Industry Act 1999: changes in expenditure (including losses of revenue) attributable to the greater take-up of the "free meter option" by household customers than the Director has assumed; the consequences (debt-recovery costs and bad debt) of removal of each company's right to disconnect domestic customers for non-payment of charges; and the cost to each company of operating the new scheme under which designated vulnerable customers who pay on measured tariffs will be protected against significantly-increased water bills, attributable to the presence in the household of three or more children under the age of 16, or the fact that a member of the household suffers from a particular medical condition.

The Director's Approach

Unless a company consents to this modification of its licence, the Director may not make it. He has told all the companies that the proposal is part of the package containing its new price limits. Therefore, although the proposal is in any case subject to the outcome of this public consultation, he will not act upon any company's consent to the modification unless, at the same time, it confirms its acceptance of the Director's determination of its price limits for the five years commencing on 1st April 2000.

(Should any company require the Director to refer his determination of its price limits to the Competition Commission, the Director will await the outcome of that reference, before taking any further action upon this proposal). (497)
