FisheriesPress Release 22.09.2004

DEFRA—UK Fisheries Minister Official Visit To Faroe Islands Fisheries Minister Ben Bradshaw will make his first official visit to the Faroe Islands this (Thursday 24 to Saturday 26 September). As part of his fact finding mission, Mr Bradshaw will have a breakfast meeting with the Faroese Prime Minister, Mr Joannes Eidesgaard before boarding a fisheries inspection vessel. During his visit to the Faroe Island Mr Bradshaw will meet with Bjorn Kalso, the Fisheries Minister and also hold discussions with representatives from the Faroese fishing industry. Ben Bradshaw, speaking about his visit, said: “If we are to achieve for the future a sustainable and economically viable fishing industry it is important that we learn of others’ experience. My visit to the Faroe Islands offers me the opportunity to see at first hand how the Faroese government is working with its fishing industry to ensure a sustainable future. The fishing industry is very important to the Faroes Islands, and I want to explore how , the challenges for a sustainable future for the Faroe Islands have been met by an approach to management of fish stocks that meets their particular needs. “All countries, whether part of the Common Fisheries Policy (CFP) or outside, know that the management and control fisheries is not easy and requires adaptive and responsive systems. Taking an integrated approach to management, addressing the economic and social needs alongside those of nature conservation—is key to achieve a sustainable future for this generation and generations to come. We must make sure that the Common Fisheries Policy reflects the need to take account of individual circumstances that nations need to address. A common goal for all Member States is , to develop a future that provides the right balance between the environment, the social and the economic needs of all.” Public enquiries 08459 335577; Press notices are available on our website www.defra.gov.uk Defra’s aim is sustainable development <http://www.nds.coi.gov.uk/>
