We have advice of several vessels belonging to this place laden with Corn and Oyle, that have been taken by the Corsairs, who in great Numbers still infest these Seas. From Palermo they write, that that Vice Roy had changed his resolution of going to Tripoli by Sea, upon the advice he had, that the Corsairs were plying thereabouts, with Seven Gallies, with intentions to surprise him.

Lady on their way for Germany. Signior Durazzo is likewise departed for his employment at Ferrara where he is to reside in quality of the Popes Nuncio. The Bishop of Laon continues still incognito.

Madrid, July 8. The 25th past, and first instant, being the Anniversaries of St. Isidro and St. John Baptist, were according to custom celebrated with the usual Bull Feasts, in the Plaza Major; their Majesties together with all the Nobility about Town were pleased to be present at them, and were entertained to their great satisfaction, by several of the Nobility, who with much Bravery and Gallantry destroyed several Bulls upon the place.

On the first instant dyed in this Court the Conde de Oropesa, a Prince of the Royal Blood of Castile, and President of the Consejo de Italia here, to the great regret of their Majesties, and this whole Court, as being sensibly touched with the loss of a person of so much honour and merit; he hath left behind him one onely Son, the Marquis of Farandilla, to succeed him in his Honour and Fortunes.

Warsaw, July 11. Our Letters from Caminia bring us the confirmation of the defeat of the Tatars and Cossacks, as they were returning with much plunder, from an incursion they had made into some of the Frontier parts of this Kingdom, by a party of Poles under the command of the Sieur Szilmiski; and farther add, that the advantage they had, was much more considerable than was at first said.

Our apprehensions of the designs of the Turks this Summer against these Countries, seem now wholly to cease, all our Letters from Adrianople assuring us of the contrary; in the mean time his Majesty continues resolved to go into the Field in person, and presently at present expects to hear that the Nobility of the several Palatinats, are on their march to the place of Rendezvous, when his Majesty will likewise begin his journey thither.

After which he desired he might be admitted to pay his respects to the Emperor, which was excused by the said President, by reason he had not any Letters from the Grand Signior for his Imperial Majesty, but was onely sent on the part of the said Visier of Buda.
