St. James's, June 22.

AN humble Address of the Mayor, Recorder, Magistrates, Common-Council, Clergy, and other Inhabitants of the Borough of Plymouth in the County of Devon, has been presented to His Majesty by the Right Honourable the Earl of Berkeley first Lord Commissioner of the Admiralty, &c.

An humble Address of the High Sheriff, Deputy Lieutenants, and Justices of the Peace of the County of Salop, has been presented to his Majesty by Sir Robert Corbet, introduced by the Lord Newburgh, in the Absence of the Earl of Bradford.

Which Addresses His Majesty was pleased to receive very graciously.

Constantinople, April 23, O. S. Here arrived lately four Persons, who pretended to be Deputies from the chief Rebel in Persia who sacked Schamachia; and said they were sent by him to demand the Protection of the Port; but as they came without any Credential Letter, they were soon dismissed with some slight Presents, and without any direct Answer to their Demand. This Port sends every Year a Squadron of Ships into the Archipelago, to clear the Sea of the Maltese or other Christian Corsairs; and ten Men of War have been for some time fitting out for that purpose, but are stronger manned than usual, and better provided with Arms and Ammunition. This Court has likewise sent Orders to the Governments of Tripoli, Tunis, and Algier, to fit out as many of their Ships as they can to join them, and have appointed Janom Choggia (who is the ablest Seaman they have) to command the Fleet. He is now at Tripoli, whence he is to remove to Scio, where the Fleet is to meet him, and the ten Men of War are already sailed out of this Port. The Enterprize concerted is kept secret, but is conjectured to be against a little Island called Gozo near Malta, which is or may be made strong, so as to serve to bridle the Maltese Rovers, if it can be taken.

Vienna, June 13, N. S. Letters from Constantinople advise, that Expresses were come to the Ottoman Port from different Parts of Persia, bringing Accounts that the Kingdom of Persia has been attacked by two Armies of Rebels, one headed by Miriveis, and the other by Scheich Mahmud; the first having over-run all the Country from Candachar to Ispahan, laid Siege to that Capital, took and plundered it, and also made himself Master of the Castle, the King of Persia with only three or four Persons, escaping with great Difficulty. Miriveis was assisted by the Great Mogul, and has with him a numerous Army, the greatest Part

[Price Three Half Pence.]

Part of which are Volunteers, to whom he gives free Liberty to plunder all the Towns they take. The other Army under Scheich Mahmud has also made great Incursions into Persia, and conquered all the Country from Dagistan to the Province of Iran.

Hague, June 26. Letters from Moscow dated the 22d of May relate, That the Great-Admiral Count Apraxin, the Privy-Counsellour M. Tolstoy, Lieutenant General Baturlin, Prince Jurien Trubetskoy President of the College of Magistrates, and the Hospodar of Wallachia Demetrius Cantimir, were already set out from thence for Astracan; and that most of the Officers and Servants of the Court, were to set forwards that Day for Colonna, whither the Czar and his Consort would be going by the 24th, thence to proceed to Astracan. The Princesses his Czarish Majesty's Daughters were with the rest of the Court to set out in a few Days for Petersbourg, but are to return to Moscow the Beginning of Winter. Prince Menzikoff was ordered to go (after the Czar's Departure) to Petersbourg, Wybourg, Revel, Riga, Smolensko, and other Places on the Frontiers, to view their Fortifications and Garrisons. The College of Commerce was likewise ordered to remove to Petersbourg, with some Deputies of each of the other Colleges; but the Senate was to remain at Moscow, together with the Great Chancellor and Vice-Chancellor. The Duke of Holstein was not to accompany the Czar in this Summer's Expedition. P. S. Letters from Moscow of the 29th of May, say the Czar and the Czarina set out from thence the 24th, and were advanced to Colonna on their Way to Astracan.

Paris, June 27, N. S. The following Extract of the Advices relating to the Plague received by the Court to the 22d of June, has been communicated to the foreign Ministers,

The Duke de Roquelaure in his Letters of the 5th, 8th and 12th of June, writes, that the 22d of May a Shepherd died in the Neighbourhood of Mende, without any visible Marks of the Plague, yet the usual Precautions were taken. The 1st of June at Salle-Gardon one died and one fell sick, both of the Plague. At Alais none had died or fallen sick since the 17th of May: There remained but two Persons in the Infirmary there, who were recovering. The Distemper seemed to be entirely extinguished within the two Lines, yet a careful Watch was still continued. M. de Bernage in his of the 12th of June writes, that no new Accident had happened in all the Places of the Gevaudan which had been infected, not in those of the Dioceses of Alais, Uzes, and Viviers. Permission was about to be given to the Inhabitants of Alais, to go out of their Houses with certain Precautions. The Duke de Roquelaure had appointed a general Quarantain to begin there the 1st of July.

The Comtat, and the Principality of Orange. M. d'Ocray writes the 7th of June, that he had an Account from Orange the 27th of May, that there were three or four sick in the Town and six or seven in the Country. M. de Belrieu in his of the 7th and 12th of June advises, that Avignon was still in a bad Condition, through the ill Order observed there: That Orange was much better, by the good Order kept in it. Commissary Ruelle writes the 13th of June, that on the 6th none died nor were any newly taken sick at Orange. Letters from Avignon of the 8th give an Account, that 10 or 12 Persons a Day fell sick still there, and that those who were taken with malignant Fevers died sooner than those who had the Plague. Letters from Marseilles of the same Date, tell us there was hardly any Appearance of the Plague remaining there, and that they hoped to be soon perfectly freed from it.

Provence. M. de Grand Maison who commands in Flanders at Marseilles, in his Letter of the 8th of June writes, that the Plague is still there; but rather decreases than increases. M. le Bret writes the 18th, that three Persons were dead in the Infirmaries of Marseilles: And 60 remained sick there.

there. The Physicians write from thence; that those newly taken ill were less violently attacked than the former. The 9th a Child died in the Territory of Marseilles, but without any certain Marks of the Plague.
