

Years most happy Reign over us, you may transmit your Dominions with all these Advantages, in the Hereditary Succession of your Royal Progeny to latest Posterity; and that Almighty God, by whom Kings reign, may bless and long preserve your Majesty, with your Royal Consort our most Gracious Queen, his Royal Highness the Prince of Wales, and all the Royal Family, for these great and good Ends, are the zealous, sincere and hearty Prayers of,

May it please your Majesty,
Your Majesty's most dutiful, most loyal,
and most obedient Subjects and Servants.

The following humble Address of the Freeholders, and other Heretors of the Shire of Dumbarton, has been presented to His Majesty by his Grace the Duke of Argyll. Which Address His Majesty was pleased to receive very graciously.

To the King's most Excellent Majesty;

May it please your Majesty,

WE your Majesty's most dutiful and loyal Subjects, beg Leave, in the most humble Manner, to approach your Sacred Person, that we may express our hearty Sorrow and Concern for the Death of your Royal Father, of glorious Memory; a Loss not to be repaired, but by your Majesty's happy and peaceable Accession to the Imperial Throne of your Ancestors.

Your Majesty's shining Virtues and consummate Wisdom, and the Valour wherewith you very early distinguished yourself in the Field in Defence of the Liberties of Europe, give us the certain and agreeable Prospect of all the Happiness we can wish for during your auspicious Reign.

As the powerful Influence of your Majesty's Counsels and Arms Abroad rid us from the Fear of Foreign Enemies, so we assure ourselves, that the Remains of Disaffection will be entirely extinguished while your Majesty sits at the Helm protecting our Religion and Liberties.

We beg Leave, on this Occasion, to assure your Majesty of our sincere Affection and Loyalty to your Majesty's Person and Government; in the Defence of which, we judge it our indispensable Duty and true Interest to exert ourselves to the utmost in our several Stations.

We see with Pleasure your Majesty blessed with a numerous Issue, which we look upon as the greatest Security of perpetuating the invaluable Blessings we now enjoy: That your Majesty, with your Royal Consort our most gracious Queen, and illustrious Family, may be always under the Divine Protection; and that there may never be wanting, to latest Posterity, one of your Royal Race to sway the Scepter over us, is, and shall be the fervent Prayers of,

May it please your Majesty,
Your Majesty's most loyal, most faithful, and most dutiful Subjects and Servants

The following humble Address of the Protestant Dissenting Ministers of the County of Devon, that usually assemble in the City of Exeter, has been presented to His Majesty by Mr. Thomas Reynolds, introduced by the Right Honourable the Earl of Deloraine Lord of the Bed-Chamber to His Majesty in waiting. Which Address His Majesty was pleased to receive very graciously; and Mr. Reynolds had the Honour to kiss His Majesty's Hand.

To the King's most Excellent Majesty,

WE your Majesty's most dutiful and loyal Subjects, humbly beg Leave to condole with your Sacred Majesty on the sudden and surprizing Death of your Royal Father our late most gracious Sovereign, whose Memory must be precious to all true Britons, as long as the Protestant Religion, their Liberties and Properties, are valued and regarded by them.

The Loss of so excellent a Prince would have affected us with a much deeper Sorrow and Conternation, had not a kind Providence immediately relieved us by the rightful and peaceable Accession of your Majesty to the Throne, which we now congratulate with the sincerest Joy; esteeming it our highest Happiness to come under the Protection of a Prince of such Wisdom and Experience, so tender of our Religious and Civil Privileges; and every way qualified to make your People great and happy.

It gives no small Addition to our Joy; that God hath also adorned your Royal Consort our most gracious Queen; with so many eminent and distinguishing Vertues: We hope her shining Example will have a most extensive Influence; and check the Licentiousness of a corrupt Age; and that the Happiness of these Nations will be perpetuated in the numerous and hopeful Branches of your illustrious Family.

We always esteemed it our great Honour to have been inviolably attached to the Interest of your Royal House; and that we have manifested our steady and undissembled Zeal for it in the worst of Times; and can now assure your Majesty, that, among all those with whom we are concerned, we know not one single Person that is not entirely devoted to your Majesty's Person and Government, in Opposition to any Pretender whatsoever.

We sincerely promise your Majesty, that it shall be our constant Endeavour to promote the Ease and Comfort of your Reign, not only by being dutiful ourselves, but by exciting all under our Charge to the same Deportment.

May the Great God by whom Kings reign, and who hath hitherto so eminently appeared for your illustrious Family, continue his Presence with you, build you a sure House; succeed your Administrations, and prosper your Counsels to the Security of the Protestant Religion, and Tranquility of Europe.

The following humble Address of the People called Quakers in the Kingdom of Ireland

