Bristol, May 9.

THIS City having some Days since sent a Deputation from their Body to Bath, to congratulate her Royal Highness the Princess Amelia on her Arrival in these Parts, to wish her a perfect Recovery of her Health, and also to desire she would be pleased to honour this City with her Presence, they received Notice Yesterday, that her Royal Highness intended to come by Water this Day. Upon which immediate Orders were given to make all the Preparations possible on so short a Warning, that they might in the best Manner shew their Duty and Loyalty, and Joy for the Honour intended them.

Her Royal Highness accordingly came by Water, attended by several Barges with Musick. Her Royal Highness was accompanied by the Lady Pomfret, with the Dutchels of Rutland and the Lady Frances Manners: Her Royal Highness landed between Eleven and Twelve, the Mayor, Aldermen and Corporation in their Scarlet Gowns attending to receive her, with several of the neighbouring Gentlemen of the Country, at a handsome Stage covered with Scarlet built at the Place of landing, a Guard of Lord Tyrawley's Regiment attending. Upon her landing 21 Guns were fired. Her Royal Highness's Chair was ready to receive her, as likewise her own Coaches. The Mayor and whole Corporation walked before her Chair, and conducted her thro' the principal Streets, where the Houses were all adorned with rich Carpets, Scarlet Cloth, &c. to the House of Alderman Day, in the Great Square, provided for her Royal Highness's Reception. After resting some little Time, her Royal Highness admitted the Mayor and Corporation, and the Town Clerk congratulated her Royal Highness on her Arrival; and they all had the Honour to kiss her Hand. Immediately after, the Dean of Bristol and the Clergy were presented, and the Dean congratulated her Royal Highness on her Arrival. Next the Commander of Lord Tyrawley's Regiment presented his Officers, and the Collector the Officers of the Revenue.

Soon after, her Royal Highness took her own Coach, and proceeded through Queen-Square to see the Key of Bristol, where were near 100 Sail of Ships all adorned with their Colours; thence to the College-Green and the Cathedral, and from thence came back to the Merchants Hall, where all the Ladies of the Town were assembled, and the Mayor and Corporation. Her Royal Highness walked up between them, and being seated in the uppermost Room in a Chair of State, Mrs. Mayores was presented, and afterwards all the rest of the Ladies, who had the Honour to kiss her Hand. From thence her Royal Highness went to Mr. Alderman Day's to dine privately, as she had desired, where the Lords and others who attended her Royal Highness, were likewise entertained. A little after Four, her Royal Highness set out for the Water Side to take Boat, being attended by the Mayor and Corporation, with loud Wishes for her Safety from Crowds of People on the Banks; and returned safe to Bath. There never appeared a more universal Joy and Satisfaction, than her Royal Highness's most gracious and affable Behaviour gave to all Persons. The Churches were all adorned with Streamers; the Bells continually ringing; the Ships firing; not a Street or Alley but the Houses were adorned with Flowers and Green Boughs.

The Corporation returned from her Royal Highness's Imbarkation to the Merchants Hall; where a magnificent Entertainment was prepared for the Ladies, which ended in a Ball that lasted very late: And nothing was omitted to testify the Satisfaction and Joy the City had in the Honour of this Visit.

An Act for the Relief of Insolvent Debtors. And to five private Bills.

And then his Excellency was pleased to make a Speech to both Houses of Parliament, which is as followeth.

My Lords and Gentlemen,

IT gives me great Satisfaction at my coming to put an End to this Session of Parliament, that I can observe to you, all the publick Bills transmitted from hence, have been returned under the Great Seal of Great Britain; this distinguishing Instance of His Majesty's Regard for you, is one of the happy Effects of that remarkable Application and Unanimity which have appeared in all your Proceedings.

His Majesty's gracious Condescension in departing from His own Right, by lessening His hereditary Revenue for the Ease of the Subject, and the Encouragement of Trade, shews His Royal Concern for the Welfare and Happiness of this Kingdom, and, together with many other signal Marks of His Majesty's Goodness, must convince us, that His Majesty has nothing more at Heart than the Interest and Prosperity of His People.

The Foundations laid for the Increase of Tillage, so necessary in this Country; the new Advantages given for the Improvement of the Linnen Manufactures; the Care taken for regulating the Assize of Bread; the establishing a Fund for the Work-House, and for employing the Poor in this populous City; the Relief given to unfortunate Debtors; the Regulation made for future Elections; the reducing your Parliamentary Priviledges for the Ease and Benefit of your Fellow-Subjects; and those other excellent Laws now passed, for erecting Churches where they are most wanted; for the better Maintenance of the Clergy, and for preserving and strengthening the Protestant Interest of this Kingdom, will, I persuade myself, be so many memorable Instances of the Worth, Honour and Wisdom of this Parliament.

Gentlemen of the House of Commons,

I am commanded by His Majesty to return you Thanks for the Supplies, which in the most chearful Manner you have unanimously given for the Support of the Establishment, and for proceeding in the Measures the late House of Commons had begun, effectually to enable His Majesty to continue the Forces in such a Condition, as may contribute to disappoint all Attempts of His Enemies.

My Lords and Gentlemen,

The publick Business being now over, and your own Affairs calling you to your several Coun-

Countries, I can make no Doubt, but you will, in your respective Stations, exert yourselves in promoting His Majesty's Service, with the same Zeal and Spirit which you have shewn in the Course of this Session, and which so highly becomes a People truly sensible of the Happiness they enjoy under His Majesty's most gracious Government.

I think myself obliged at this Time, when Corn bears so excessive a Rate, to recommend to your particular Care, the preventing all Abuses of Forefallers and others which may enhance the Price of it, to the Detriment of the Kingdom, and the Oppression of the Poor.

Nothing could be more acceptable to me, than to find by the Addresses of both Houses, that my Endeavours for the publick Service have been to your Satisfaction: The many Marks of Loyalty and Affection which you have shewn to His Majesty's Sacred Person and Royal Family, during my Administration, lay me under the highest Obligations to promote the Good of this Kingdom upon all Occasions to the utmost of my Power; and I shall, on my Return into His Majesty's Presence, make a faithful Representation to His Majesty of your most loyal and dutiful Behaviour.

Then the Lord Chancellor declared, That it was his Excellency the Lord Lieutenant's Pleasure, that this Parliament be prorogued to Tuesday the Fourth Day of June next: And the Parliament was accordingly prorogued to Tuesday the Fourth Day of June next.
