Fontainebleau, Nov. 2, N. S.

SINCE the 29th past nothing particular has happened in the King's Illness; the Small Pox having continued to come out in the best and most regular Manner, His Majesty having been without Pain or Fever, and having slept without Interruption many Hours every Night; the preceeding Pustules drying up and disappearing gradually, as the others rose and came to a Suppuration, and now the Pustules are all dried and falling off. So that all Danger and Apprehension were over two Days ago. Yesterday the King changed Linnen. On Thursday the 4th Instant he will change his Apartment, and on Saturday or Monday next be purged; so that the Departure of the Court from hence is fixed for the 22d, when it is thought they will go to Marly, to continue there till Christmas. Two of the King's Ships were launched the 20th past at Havre, the one called the Ruby destined for Martinique, the other called la Gironde to go to Toulon. M. Boudin, formerly Physician to the Dauphin, and first Physician to the Queen, is dead; and is succeeded by M. Helvetius. M. d'Armenonville, Father to M. de Morville, and formerly Keeper of the Seals, has received the Sacraments, and is at Extremity. Her most Christian Majesty went this Morning in Devotion to a Convent at Morette, a little Town two Leagues from hence.
