By the KING,

A PROCLAMATION.

Prohibiting His Majesty's Subjects to give or furnish Assistance to any of the Inhabitants of Corsica, now in Rebellion against the Republick of Genoa.

GEORGE R.

WHEREAS Signior John Baptist Gastaldi, Secretary of the most Serene Republick of Genoa, our good Friends and Allies, residing at our Court, hath by a Memorial on the Behalf and by the Command of the said most Serene Republick, represented unto us, That notwithstanding the Methods hitherto used to appease the Insurrection in the Island of Corsica, the Rebels there are still so rash as to continue in their Obstinacy; and that they could not have subsisted so long in their Revolt in Case Ships of different Nations had not carried Arms and Warlike Provisions to them, contrary to the Intention of their Sovereigns: That to prevent so great a Mischief, the said most Serene Republick had thought proper to send Gallies and other armed Vessels with positive Orders not to suffer any Ships to approach any Place in the said Island, except the four Ports of Bastia, Ajaccio, Calvi, and Bonifacio, which are reserved open for Commerce; and to watch in such Manner that no Provisions may be brought to the Rebels, under Pain of such Forfeitures as are agreeable to Law and the indispensable Necessity of the State: But as there are several Places in the Island where Ships may come to Land, and it is very difficult to guard them all at the same Time, therefore the said most Serene Republick did request us, that we would give Orders to our Officers of our Sea-Ports not to supply any Ships of Corsica with Military Provisions; and also that Ships belonging to our Subjects might forbear to carry on such a Commerce, which tends only to support the said Rebels in their Revolt: We being desirous to give all just Satisfaction to our said good Friends and Allies the most Serene Republick of Genoa, and to maintain inviolably the Peace and Friendship subsisting between us and them, have thought fit, with the Advice of our Privy Council, to issue this our Royal Proclamation, and do hereby strictly charge and command all our Subjects, of what Condition soever they be, that they forbear to give or furnish, Aid, Assistance, Countenance or Succour, by any Ways or Means whatsoever, to any of the Inhabitants of the Island of Corsica, in Rebellion against the said most Serene Republick; upon Pain not only of our high Displeasure, but of suffering such Punishment as by Law may be inflicted on such as wilfully violate our Treaties, and infringe the Peace and Friendship subsisting between us and any foreign Princes or States.

Given at our Court at Hampton-Court, the Twelfth Day of June, 1731. in the Fifth Year of our Reign.
