Plimouth, Octob. 18.

Here is arrived the Nightingal Frigate with a French Merchant man, which was taken by a Dutch Caper, and retaken by the said Frigate off of Falmouth.

Tunis, Aug. 28. Our six Biscerta Gallies are returned into Port, having brought with them 85 Slaves, most taken from the Christian Shoar; in their return home, they were met by seven Malta Gallies, who gave close chase to them for the space of 24 hours, but our Gallies out-rowed them by much. The Sieur Martel Commanding a Squadron of six French men of War in these seas, having concluded a peace as well here as at Argiers, hath since been before Tripoli on the same account, though we cannot as yet hear that he hath concluded any thing there.

Ditto, Sept. 12. The Sieur Martel arrived with his Squadron lately in this Port, and after having continued here some days to take in Provisions and other refreshments, went out again to cruize.

Lisbonne, Octob. 1. We are fitting out here eight considerable Ships to be sent to the Indies the next Spring from Brazile we have advice, that the Sr. Pedro, Vice-Admiral of our East-India Fleet, which went hence this year, being as far as the Cape of Good Hope, was forced by a mutiny of the Seamen and Soldiers, who cut down her Masts, to bear up with such little sail as they could make for Brazile; Orders have been sent from hence to fit her out again with all speed. We hear of a Hurricane that hath lately happened in the Province of Atentejo, which hath destroyed most of their Oyl and Wine, thrown down abundance of Houses, and killed a great many people, insomuch that the loss is valued at three Millions of Crowns.

Rome, Octob. 1. On the 18 instant the famous Sieur Borri, Native of Milan, who for having published and asserted several damnable and Heretical Tenets in matters of Religion, was about two years since apprehended in Germany by the Emperors direction, and sent prisoner hither, in order to his being proceeded against by the Inquisition here, made a solemn Abjuration of all his Heresies in the Church of Minerva, in the presence of the whole Colledge of Cardinals, most of the Nobility and persons of quality about Town, and an extraordinary concourse of people; after which he was reconducted to prison, where according to the Sentence of the said Inquisition, he is to remain for ever and so recite every day the Creed, every week the Eleven Penitential Psalms, and to Confess and Communicate every month; the Inquisition reserving however to themselves a power to alter this Sentence hereafter, as they shall find fit.

Warsaw, Octob. 11. The 4 instant the King passed the Wassel, and the same day joyned with him the Militia of the Palatinats of Cracovia, Sundmivik, and Russland, making up in all, together with those Troops which were already with the King, 30000 Men; it is said his Majesty intends to march directly for Lublin, and there expect the arrival of the Nobility of Lithuania, Magovia, and the lesser Poland, who, it is computed, may consist of 30000 Men more; with this Army, if in the mean time our Commissioners shall not be able to obtain peace, the King will march to attacke the Enemy in the Ukraine, if not ere that, advanced nearer to us, as it may well be feared he will, considering the little opposition he can as yet any where meet with; a very considerable Body of Tartars and Cossacks have been certainly before Leopol, and demanded the place to be surrendered to them, and as certain it is, that the Governor had upon their first Summons; absolutely refused to hear of any such proposals, being resolved to defend the Town to the last extremity; but we not having now had any Letters from thence for these five or six days, are in great expectation to know what may have since happened, very much apprehending, that if the Enemy continues to straiten the place, they within will not be able to defend themselves long, through the great want they are in of all kind of Provisions: The 7 instant arrived in the Army the Auxiliary Troops of the Elector of Brandenburgh, being in all but 1000 Men, though according to the late Treaty, that Elector is to furnish 6000 Men; several pieces of Cannon have some days since been sent from hence to the Army, with other Military Provisions, so that we now seem to endeavor in earnest, to put our selves into a posture of defence, which we might hope to do, could we once overcome those many factions that so miserably divide this Kingdom.

Madrid, Octob. 12. The Venetian Ambassador parted hence the last week on his return home; having left the Secretary of the Embassy to reside here. The Marquis de Liche is pretty well recovered of his late indisposition. From Alicant we are told of the 27 past, that the day before passed by there five Gallies of the Duke of Turris's Squadron for Cartagena, under the Command of Don Pagano Dorja, in order to their transporting thence the new Dutchess of d' Ossuna for Italy.

Genova, Oct. 12. The Sieur de Gaumont the French Envoy, having some days since received by an Express, farther directions from the Court of France, concerning his Negotiation here, which as is said, were, That unless he received a satisfactory answer from the Senate to his late Proposals, within 24 hours after the receipt of these Orders, he should immediately return home, the said Envoy acquainted the Senate therewith, who accordingly resolved not to be wanting on their part, in any thing that might conduce to an accommodation, and that they would accept of the conditions proposed by the said Envoy, in order thereunto. In the mean time we hear, that the Duke of Savoys Forces have lately taken one of two places on the Frontiers, belonging to this State.

Dantzick, Octob. 14. Our Letters from Poland tell us, of great confusion that was in the Army; the generality of the Nobility continuing to urge the King to call a Dyet, or Convention in the Field, in order to their proceeding against those, who have hitherto so insolently and maliciously frustrated all the good intentions of the King for the publick good; and in the first place, that the Archbishop of Gnesna, the Crown General Sobieski, and the Crown Treasurer Bonski, as the chief Abettors of all these Factions, should be displaced, and others appointed in those high Offices; They farther add, that in this fury they would have apprehended the Chastellan of Pojna, and the Crown Standart Bearer, with several others, had they not privately retired themselves: what troubles these jealousies and disorders among the Nobility may involve the Kingdom into, we fear, we shall too soon hear, especially considering how formidable an Enemy is at their doors, and how unsettled their affairs at home still are; The Envoy that was sent to the Imperial Court is returned, not much to the satisfaction of the Poles, the conditions on which the Emperor proposes to assist them, being so hard, that it is said, they will rather want the one, then consent to the other; We have advice, that the Crown General being joynd with Hanenko, General of the Cossacks, had fallen unawares upon a considerable Body of Tartars, and totally routed them, which may prove of great advantage to the Poles in the present Conjuncture; We are told that the Inhabitants of Leopol have compounded with the Tartars for 80 thousand Guilders, to quit the place.

Hambrough, Octob. 23. From Sweden we are told, that the States of that Kingdom assemble daily, and are advancing with great unanimity to the conclusion of several matters of much importance; they farther speak of several thousand Men that Crown is about transporting into Pomeran and their other Territories in Germany. Our Letters from Poland say, that the Turks having made themselves masters of Leopol, were advanced towards Cracow, and that it was feared, that place would likewise fall into their hands, before it could possibly be relieved by the Poles; but this news we hope will be contradicted by our next Letters.

Cologne, Oct. 23. By a Vessel which came down the Rhyn, and arrived here two days since, we have advice, that the Auxiliary Troops were marching towards the Rhyn, and that the Van of the Army, consisting in 9000 Men, was already arrived over against Metz; it is discoursed here, that the French Army will remove out of the County of Bergh, into that of Guilick. From Heydelberg of the 15 instant, we are told, that some days before arrived here on the part of the Emperor, Prince Harman, Marquis of Baden, to invite that Elector to enter into the League concluded between his Imperial Majesty, the Elector of Brandenburgh, &c. but that he made no long stay there, having, as is said, received this Answer from the Elector, That as he would be always ready to contribute his utmost power for the conservation of the peace of the Empire, so he desired to be excused from entering into any other Interests.

Brussels Octob. 25. On Thursday last Don Emanuel de Lyra, the Spanish Minister, went hence for the Hague, after having had several conferences with his Excellency the Count de Monterey, but the Baron d'Issola, is still here; the Duke of Bourbonville may now very suddenly part hence on his way to the Imperial Army, which we are told he is to command in quality of Lieutenant-General, the Count de Montecuculi being remanded home by his Imperial Majesty as well in consideration of his great age, as that the Emperor seems to have more pressing occasion for his service nearer home; We are told by 3000 French that are some days since arrived at Charleroy from Mafeyck, and that they are to continue their march from thence towards Lorraine; according to our late advices from Germany, the confederate Armies were then quartered between Frankfort and Metz; being very much at a stand, by reason of the Electors of Metz and of Treves, having absolutely refused them passage over the Rhyn. The French Army continues as yet in the County of Bergh, though it is reported that they intend to march towards Guilickland for Forage.

Hague, Octob. 28. The 25 instant arrived here an Express from the Elector of Brandenburgh, with advice, that his Electoral Highness had his head quarter at Gosbach, and intended to march thence towards the Rhyn; That in the mean time he had written to the Bishop of Munster, in the name of his Imperial Majesty, to press him to declare Categorically, whether he be still resolved to adhere to the Interests of France in this present War, that they might know how to proceed accordingly; The Prince of Orange is expected here, in order to the concluding some Maritime affairs, about which as well Lieutenant Admiral de Ruyter, as the Deputy of the Respective Admiralties, have been for several days here in Town, and had several Conferences with the Council of State; The Count Conningmark is made General of the Infantry, in the room of the late Monsieur Zuleseyn. Here is arrived the Heer Craakaw, on his way to England, whither he goes as Envoy Extraordinary from the Elector of Brandenburgh: Vice-Admiral van Nasse is ordered to go to Sea, with ten men of War, as well to convoy our Marchant men as to annoy the Enemy.

Ditto, Octob. 28. Here is much discourse of the design said to be now in hand, which however is kept so secret, that few people can say any thing of it; The Prince of Orange is in the mean time bringing all his Forces together from all parts, and has appointed their general Rendezvous to be at the Old Bosch, about five Leagues from Willemstadt, whither for their greater ease, they are carried in flat bottom Boats, which are to lye ready there to transport them on the suddain to that place, which they intend to attack. It is said the Army will consist of near 30000 Men.

Paris, Octob. 29. About the middle of the next week their Majesties remove with the Court from St. Germain to Versailles, the young Duke of Anjou being perfectly recovered of his late indisposition; Yesterday the Prince of Conde went hence for Metz, and within few days Monsieur de Navailles will part hence towards Alsacia, by order of his Majesty, to see in what posture things are there. Since our last we have the farther particulars of the late Action of Wooden, which in the whole lets us more plainly see the great advantage we then obtained over the Dutch, notwithstanding the inequality of their number, they being counted in all near 12000 Men, when ours were not more then 1500.

Hull, Octob. 21. We have advice here, that yesterday Morning the Portsmouth Frigate gave chase to a Dutch Privateer of 20 Guns off of Humber, and we are informed by another Vessel, come in since from Sea, that the said Frigate was got within Canon shot of the said Privateer, and must in all probability have taken her.

Stole or strayed away, October the 14 instant out of a Field belonging to Goodman Buff in the Parish of Tottenham High-Cross, in the County of Middsex, a large gray Mare 14 hands and a halfe high, with some Fleabitten spots about her neck, being poor, with broken knees, and a black Start, or black Hair growing upon her far Hip, about a quarter of a yard long; Whoever gives notice of the said Mare, at the widow Lansells Coffee-house in Cornhill near the Royal Exchange, shall be well rewarded.
