

The London Gazette.

Published by Authority.

From Tuesday April 9. to Saturday April 13. 1734.

Whitehall, April 11.

THE following Address of the Mayor, Sheriffs, Citizens, and Commonalty of the City of Norwich, has been presented to his Majesty by the Right Honourable Sir Robert Walpole, and Waller Bacon, Esq; one of their Representatives in Parliament. Which Address His Majesty was pleased to receive very graciously.

To the King's most Excellent Majesty,

The humble Address of the Mayor, Sheriffs, Citizens, and Commonalty of the City of Norwich, in Common Council assembled.

Most gracious Sovereign,

WE beg Leave to congratulate your Majesty on the Celebration of the happy Nuptials of the Princess Royal with his most Serene Highness the Prince of Orange, with Minds fill'd with that Joy which inspires and warms the Heart of every true Briton on this great Event: An Event, which portends the utmost Happiness to these Kingdoms which the Divine Providence has called your Majesty to rule over.

The giving a Daughter of Great Britain to the House of Orange, will remain a lasting Memorial in the British Annals of your Majesty's great Concern for the securing what your loyal Subjects esteem invaluable, the peaceable Enjoyment of their religious and civil Rights.

When your Majesty completed this Alliance, you gave the Princess the greatest Happiness, and your Subjects received the greatest Pleasure, in seeing a Prince of that House, whose immortal Glory it is to be the Defenders of the Liberties of Europe, so nearly related to your Majesty; a Prince of the same illustrious Lineage with our great Deliverer King William, who sav'd us when we were very near becoming a Prey to the lawless Power and bigotted Zeal of an arbitrary King; an Era too recent, and a Deliverance too great to be forgot, or but barely remembred, or coldly mention'd, as it seems to be by a Part of your Majesty's Subjects, who at this time are fond, vainly fond, of being called the only Lovers of their Country.

Our Constitution, the Envy of all our Neighbours, is now by your Majesty's great Care, and the Wisdom of your Councils, in its full Vigour; and our Properties will always be secure, when guarded by a Prince whose highest Pleasure it is to be the Father of all his People, and who esteems it his greatest Glory to fix the Establishment of their Liberties on such Foundations as may render them secure to future Generations.

Given under our common Seal this 5th Day of April, 1734.

The following Address of the Mayor, Jurats, and Common Council-men, Gentlemen, and Freemen, of the Town and Port of Dover, in the County of Kent, hath been presented to his Majesty by the Right Honourable the Earl of Middlesex, and the Right Honourable the Lord Hardwicke, Lord Chief Justice of his Majesty's Court of King's Bench. Which Address his Majesty was pleased to receive very graciously.

To the King's most Excellent Majesty, The humble Address of the Mayor, Jurats, and Common Council-men, Gentlemen, and Freemen, of the Town and Port of Dover, in the County of Kent.

Most gracious Sovereign,

WE your Majesty's most dutiful Subjects, the Mayor, Jurats, and Common Council-men, Gentlemen, and Freemen, of your ancient and loyal Town and Port of Dover, beg Leave to approach your Royal Throne, humbly to congratulate your Majesty on the happy Nuptials of the Princess Royal with his Serene Highness the Prince of Orange.

The many Blessings we enjoy under your Majesty's wise, mild, and auspicious Government, and the paternal Care shewn throughout

[Price Four Pence.]