Leghorn, Aug. 19.

THe Gallies of this State came the tenth instant into Porto Ferraro, having with them several Prizes and in them 114 Slaves; They are since gone out again from thence, in search of the three Turkish Gallies that lately appeared on this Coast. From Genoua we hear, that that Senate hath finally resolved to send Signior Durazzo, in quality of their Envoy to the most Christian King.

Warsaw Aug. 19. The Kings journey towards the Frontiers of Russia, in order to his being present at the Rendezvous of the Army, is still deferred from time to time, and now is fixed for the 26 of this month; Yesterday were taken out of the Arsenal here, eight pieces of Cannon to be sent to the Army, where they intend, as is said, to have a Train of Artillery of 53 Pieces. From the Frontiers they write, that the Turks at Caminiec begin to be in great fear of our Troops, for that they have but a weak Garrison at present there, and not any prospect of succors from the Port; and the Tartars are at present so well-employed in defending themselves against the Muscovites and Cossacks, that we have not much to apprehend from them; so that many People are desirous we should lay hold of this occasion, to recover what we lost the last year, though our Governors seem not very forward to enter themselves into a War.

Egra, Aug. 26. The 18 instant, as we formerly told you, his Imperial Majesty arrived here, and the 20 the Elector of Saxony with the young Prince his Son, and Prince Murits his Brother, his Imperial Majesty having been about half a mile out of Town, to receive his Electoral Highness; The 22 was the general Muster of the Army which was composed of 22500 Foot, and 14000 Horse; and yesterday they broke up from hence, and took their march towards Nuremberg in the Upper Palatinate; and this day his Imperial Majesty is gone hence for Prague; and the Elector of Saxony on his return to Dresden.

Nuremberg, Sept. 1. The Imperial Army about 36000 Men strong, having broke up from Egra the 25 past, and taken their march through the Upper Palatinate, are come to lodge within two Leagues of this place having their principal quarter at Lauffen; the Army for their better convenience march in three Bodies, and intend to continue their way towards Rottenbourg on the Tauber, and Heilbronn, in the Duchy of Wurtemberg, and so forward. General Spork has the Vanguard of the Army, and as we are told, has Orders to secure himself of some considerable Passes on the Main; In the interim, the French Army, under the Command of Monsieur de Turenne, advances daily up higher in the Empire to meet the Imperialists, so that we may suddenly expect to hear of some action.

Cologne, Sept. 1. The Mediators having been some weeks since made acquainted with the lowest conditions of the two Kings, by their Plenipotentiaries here, and having sufficiently signified the same to the Dutch Ambassadors, so far, as to declare to them very solemnly, that if they would not comply with those conditions, which were so just and easy, They the Mediators must justify to the world the proceedings of the two Kings in order to a Peace, and declare the States to be the cause of the continuance of the War, and of all the consequences that may attend it; notwithstanding which pressing instances of the Mediators, frequently repeated to the Dutch Ambassadors, they continue in the same obstinacy as formerly. Eight or nine Regiments of the Elector of Cologne Troops, under the Command of Monsieur Lansbergh, have joyned Monsieur de Turenne Army, who has passed great part of his Artillery over the Main to Nahen, while he with the gros of his Army intends to march towards Tauber. The Elector of Bavaria Army lies, as we hear, between Nuremberg and Ratisbonne. Yesterday the Mediators entertained all the Ambassadors and Persons of the chiefest quality here at a Ball, and a very noble Supper.

Stras, Sept. 5. From Francfort of the fourth instant they write, that Monsieur de Turenne was broken up with his Army from his Quarters on the Main, having first possessed himself of Fridbergh and Achafsenbourg, and Marched towards Witzbourg and Rottenbourg, to meet the Imperialists, who are coming down that way. According to our advices from the French Court we have advice, That his most Christian Majesty having parted the 24 past from Nancy, lodged that night at Lunecville, the 25 at Raon, the 26 at St. Dey, the 27 at Markirke, the 28 at Ribawillers and the next day intended to be at Brissack; that the Towns of Colmar and Schlestat in Alsacia, had received French Garrisons into them, being very considerable places for the security of his Majesties affairs in this conjuncture. On Friday night last, the Magistrates of this place received news of the taking of Treves by the French, though our Letters arrived since from Coblentz contradict it again. The same day in the afternoon was held a Conference at the Carmes, and yesterday was held another, though, we do not learn what hath passed, farther then that the Ambassadors of England and France observing the delays the Dutch use, and their aversion speedily to conclude a peace, have set them a day to give in a final Answer to the Propositions made to them.

Paris, Sept. 2. Our last Letters from the Court advise us, of their Majesties arrival with the whole Court at Brissack; That it was once said, that his Majesty intended to advance farther up into the Empire, but at the coming away of these Letters, the discourse at Court was, that his Majesty would in eight days be back at Nancy.

Brussels, Sept. 9. Our Governor the Count de Montecrey has been to visit the Fortifications at Vilvorde, which are said to be almost finished. Our Letters from Germany assure us, that the Imperial Army had passed through the Upper Palatinate, and took their way with large Marches towards Franconia, with intentions as is given out, to Fight the French, under the Command of Monsieur de Turenne, which if so, we may every day expect to hear of a Battle, seeing the French Army advances likewise to meet them. Here hath been this day a report in Town, that Treves was taken by the Marquis de Rocheport, and the Forces under his Command, but we cannot hear that it comes with any certainty. From the French Conquests in Flanders, they they write, that they are every where very busie to repair their Fortifications, and to put themselves into the best posture; The Prince of Conde is come from Tournay to Lisle, and as is said, will remain there some short time. The States General we are told, continue to press with great instance our Governor, to declare against the French, and though his Excellency still keeps them up with promises, that he will ere long satisfy them in this particular, yet in the mean time nothing is in reality done therein that we can yet hear of. The Dutch have drawn their Forces towards Amsterdam, his Highness the Prince of Orange intending it seems to make some attempt on the French on that side. And our Letters just now arrived from Holland say, that the Prince is set down before Narerden.

Antwerp, Sept. 5. In our last we told you, that the Prince of Orange was bringing his Army together near Amsterdam, which came confirmed to us by Letters of the fourth, wherein they tell us, that the Prince with his Army and the Spanish Auxiliary Troops had passed the Amstel, on the first of this month, and that they were at the coming away of these Letters, Encamped along the Vuert between Amsterdam and Utrecht, to hinder the Communication betwixt the French Garrisons, so that it was generally believed, the Prince would within few days besiege either Utrecht, Aernhem, or Narerden; they likewise write, that the Dutch Fleet was come more Wetterly, for that they had been seen the second and third off of Egmont and Putten.

Disso, Sept. 9. All the news from Holland is, of the Prince of Oranges being set down with his Army before Narerden, our Letters adding, That the sixth instant they were advanced to the Outworks of the Town, who in the mean time makes a very vigorous resistance. From Zealand they write that all the Forces were drawn out of that Province, and were marched to join the Dutch Army; in the mean time the People in Holland are extremely disheartened at the certain news they now have of four of their East India Ships being taken by the English.

Heerenveen, Sept. 2. By three Souldiers that came hither yesterday from the Enemies Camp, where they were Prisoners, but made an escape, we have advice, that having done us all the mischief they could, plundered and destroyed a great many considerable Villages, and taken away abundance of Cattle, they resolved to Retreat again to the several places from whence they had been drawn out for this Expedition, to that purpose they quitted the Scans by Blesserbrugge, which they had possessed themselves of some days before, and the 31 of the last Month Encamped on the Heath near Steenwyck, being according to their own report, 4000 Horse and 3000 Foot, and yesterday they broke up from thence, and are marched towards Nimwegen, Zutphen, &c. their former Quarters; since their retreat Prince Mauritz, has sent some of his Troops to take possession again of the several Posts which the Enemy had forced them to quit, upon their falling into this Province.

Amsterdam, Sept. 4. We have for these three days past had very high winds and foul weather, and our Fleet, which continues still in their station near the Texel, hath as we hear, received much damage, many of our Ships having lost their Ankors, and some spent their Masts. Our Army lies at present at Loosdrecht, and in Gravelant, where the Prince of Orange has published a free Leger. On Saturday last passed through this place an Express for the Hague, who came from Egra the 26 instant, he reported, that the general Muster of the Imperial Forces there, was on the 22, and that they were 38000 Men. We are here in great expectation to hear of our East India Ships, and whilst we have not any account of them, we are in great pain, that they are fallen into the hands of the Enemy.

Hague, Sept. 5. Several Reports are spread abroad concerning our East India Ships, we expected home, whilst there be those that endeavor to persuade us, that they are safe in Bergen, or some other Port, though in the mean time the dejected countenance of those, who are most concerned, makes us suspect the worst. Our Army, which it is said, consists of 25000 Men; lies at present Encamped at Loosdrecht, between Utrecht and Narerden, one of which places the Prince of Orange intends to Attack; Colonel Palm is with four Regiments encamped not far from Utrecht on the side of the White Port; Monsieur Fariau hath invested Narerden, and in the mean time, a great many small Vessels, mounted with 5, 6, and 8 Guns apiece, ly before Bommel, and keep that place in continual Allarm. Our Fleet lies still near the Texel, and as we hear, to continue there till our Eastland Fleet is arrived, which we daily expect home.

From the Camp at Loosdrecht, Sept. 5.

We are at present Encamped here with 25000 Men, reckoning those which ly under the Command of Colonel Palm near Utrecht, and those which Invest Narerden, under the Command of the Sieur Fariau. This afternoon his Highness the Prince of Orange received advice, that 5000 French Horse were passed the River Leck at Wycke te Duerfede, between Utrecht and Aernhem.

Amsterdam, Sept. 9. Our Letters dated yesterday from the Camp before Narerden tell us, The sixth instant at night Orders were given to the Troops, to have themselves in readiness to march the next Morning early, when his Highness received intelligence, that 5000 French Horse were entered into Utrecht, whereupon, Orders were immediately given to march towards Narerden, 5000 Men having been only left at Loosdrecht, to guard our Posts, where we arrived about 11 a clock; About three in the afternoon, they began to form the Siege, and to work on the Retrenchments, and to raise four Batteries, which were in a posture of defence, the next Morning by eight a clock; The seventh in the afternoon arrived from Amsterdam through the South Sea, three floating Batteries made of Boats, to batter the Town on the side of the water; The eighth they fired very furiously into the Town, who were not wanting to answer them in the same kind, so that that Morning there were about fourscore killed and wounded in the Camp; In the Town we hear they have 2000 Men in Garrison, and that our Army consists of 20000 Men; In the mean time they expect in the Camp 6000 Men more, to come and join them, being to be drawn out of Breda, Bergen op Zoom, Willemstadt, and other places; for the French we hear are bringing together a considerable Body of Men to relieve the place.
