

Hussien Pascià, with a military Example, incessantly animated the Garrison, and closely attended the repairing of those Parts that had been ruined by the Cannon of the Enemy, who having formed Mines, and in eight Days Time provided all Sorts of Instruments, especially 1700 Ladders, which he made his Soldiers carry upon their Shoulders for the Assault; and having passed the Tigris with all his Troops to apply the said Scales to the Walls, in the mean time he set Fire to the Mines, two of which by mere Providence turning backwards, buried a great Number of their Men, and the rest of the Mines remained without the least Operation; notwithstanding which, he forced his Troops to the Assault, and to apply the Ladders. But the Besieged were as active in repelling them with Granadoes, Bombs, and Fire-arms, making a continual Slaughter of the impertinent Enemies: the Fight between the two Parties lasting seven Hours, it being Friday, after which, at about The 8th Hour, our Troops had the Success, by the particular Providence of the just God, to get the better, and to remain Conquerors, having cut off 5400 Enemies, and the Remainder of their Troops not being any longer able to withstand the heroick Courage of our victorious Soldiers, were forced to fly and retire to their Camp; whilst we had but 40 in all of our Men killed during the whole Time of this Siege and Action. In short, all the Projects contrived from the Beginning by the perfidious Enemy proved but vain Attempts, so that growing at last desperate, with the greatest Confusion and Dispersion of his Troops, not being able any longer to subsist in these Parts, he in haste repassed the River Dizzlò, and retired to his own Country. Which being to be ascribed to God's special Favour, and to the august Fortune of our invincible Monarch, we are obliged to continual Prayers that the Divine Majesty may be pleased to perpetuate his Imperial Triumphs.

Whitehall, January 2.

The King having been pleased to appoint the Right Hon. Samuel Lord Sandys, Baron of Omberley, to be Cofferer of his Majesty's Household, his Lordship was this Day sworn into the said Office accordingly.

Whitehall, Dec. 30, 1743.

Whereas it has been represented to his Majesty, that on Tuesday the 1st Day of November last, Benjamin Hewitt, Servant to John Briscoe, of Ledsham in the County of Chester, Yeoman, was found barbarously murdered in a Field belonging to the said John Briscoe, about a Mile distant from his Dwelling-house in Ledsham aforesaid: For the better discovering and bringing to Justice the Person or Persons who committed the said Murder, his Majesty is pleased to promise his most gracious Pardon to any one of them, (except the Person who actually killed the said Benjamin Hewitt) who shall discover his Accomplice or Accomplices, so as he or they may be apprehended and convicted thereof.
