

Berlin, June 29, N. S. We have Advice from Bohemia of the 21st, that his Prussian Majesty was that Day with his whole Army near Konigingratz, and that General Nadasti was posted thereabouts with 8000 Men, in order to cover that Town, whilst the main Body of the Combined Army was retiring towards Pardubitz, whither they had transported their Magazines. It is reported here, that the Avant Guard of the Magdebourg Corps is marched to a Place called Grosklog, in the Neighbourhood of Halle, and that the main Body of that Army will very shortly follow that Corps, under the Command of the reigning Prince of Dessau.

Wachtersbach, June 30, N. S. The Armies under the Marshals Traun and Bathiani have, from the 24th Instant to this Day, remained in the same Situation in this Neighbourhood. But a new Camp is order'd to be mark'd out, to which both Armies will advance To-morrow.

Dresden, June 30, N. S. We have Advice here by Letters of the 28th Instant from the Combined Army in Bohemia, that upon the 26th at Night the Prussians attacked one of our Posts on the Alder, and killed about 60 Men, but were repulsed with greater Loss, and left some Cannon behind them in a Morass, of which the Allies not being inform'd, the Enemy recover'd them the next Day, when his Prussian Majesty had changed the Position of his Camp, and was come nearer to the said River. The Allies remained in theirs, but had some Thoughts of making a Motion. Prince Charles has received two more Regiments of regular Troops, and the Artillery sent from hence and from Vienna is arrived at Pardubitz. They abound in Provisions; but the Prussians are said to be in great Want; and their Convoys are so harras'd by the Insurgents, that his Prussian Majesty had detached a Regiment or two towards Silesia to oppose their Progress.

Camp of Gramont, July 3, N. S. The Allied Army arrived here on the 30th past, and the next Day encamp'd, with the Abbey of Beaupres on the Right, and the Village of Moerbeek on the Left.

Hague, July 2, N. S. We have Advice from Brest of the 17th past, that M. Guerin, Captain of a Ship in the French King's Service, was arrived there from Cape Breton, which Place he left the 16th of April last. The said Captain reports, that an English Fleet of six Men of War and 40 Transports were at that Time laying before Louisbourg, and that it was thought that Fort would not hold out many Days. He further adds, that he left the Vigilant, a French Ship of 64 Guns, engaged with three English Men of War on the 22d of May.

Advices from Ostend, dated July 4, N. S. give the following Account.

Yesterday Afternoon Lord George Graham, in his Majesty's Ship the Bridgewater, of 24 Guns, Captain Gordon, in the Sheerness of 24 Guns, and Lieutenant Fergusone in the Ursula armed Vessel of 16 Guns, anchored in Sight of this Town. This Morning, about Half past One o'Clock, the Town was alarmed with Firing, which arose from the three above-mentioned Ships being engaged with three Dunkirk Privateers, the Royal of 28 Guns, the Dutchess de Penthièvre of 26 Guns, a Dogger of 12 Guns, and seven Prizes which they had taken and were carrying to Dunkirk.

The Fight was obstinate till about Four o'Clock, when the four large Prizes, three of them Virginia Ships, struck to the Sheerness, the two large Privateers to the Bridgewater, and two Bremeners and a Scotch Brig struck to the Ursula, but the Dogger Privateer made her Escape. The Bridgewater, Sheerness, two large Privateers, and four large Prizes, struck the Ground, but were all got off the following Tide, except one of the Privateers.
