To St. James's, November 23.

THE following Address of the Commission of the General Assembly of the Church of Scotland, having been transmitted to the most Honourable the Marquess of Tweeddale, one of his Majesty's Principal Secretaries of State, has by him been presented to his Majesty: Which Address his Majesty was pleased to receive very graciously.

To the King's most Excellent Majesty,

The humble Address of the Commission of the General Assembly of the Church of Scotland, met at Edinburgh the 13th of November, 1745.

Most Gracious Sovereign,

WEN your Majesty's most dutiful and loyal Subjects, the Ministers and Elders of the Church of Scotland, beg Leave to take this first Opportunity to approach your Royal Presence, with Hearts equally full of an honest Zeal for your Majesty's Person and Government, and of the utmost Horror at the wicked Attempt made, in this our unhappy Country, to deprive us of the great Blessings of your Reign.

The Church of Scotland must ever remember, with the greatest Joy and Thankfulness to God, our happy Deliverance from Tyranny and Oppression, accomplished by the glorious King William; With Pleasure we reflect on the sure Foundation laid for the Continuance of this Blessing, by the Establishment of the Protestant Succession in your most illustrious House, and our highest Expectations have been fully answered, under your Royal Father's, and your Majesty's most auspicious Reigns.

Thus happy in the Possession of all our valuable Privileges, how can we, without the utmost Abhorrence, behold this wicked and daring Attempt, to subvert your Majesty's Government, and with it, our Excellent Constitution! With equal Contempt and Indignation must we behold a set of petty Tyrants, followed by their slavish Dependents, all equally insensible of the Blessings of true Liberty, conspiring to bring back the whole Nation to the like State of Slavery, under a Person, educated in the arbitrary Maxims of French and Romish Policy, whom several of themselves, had solemnly abjured. Permit us, Great Sir, to assure your Majesty, that, as the Members of this Church, have ever been distinguished for their Attachment to your Royal Family, so, through Divine Grace, no Arts or Violence of our Enemies, shall ever be able to weaken that Affection we owe to your Royal Person and Government. We are sensible that the Church of Scotland must stand or fall with the Interests of the Revolution, supported by your Majesty.

Happy, under the Government of a Prince, whose Glory it is to rule by Laws over a free People, we abhor the Thought of ever becoming the Property of arbitrary Power. Blessed with a legal Security for your Religion and Civil Rights, under your Royal Protection, we shall never give up, with this, to depend on Promises from a Tool of France and Rome, who will have ever been, and ever shall be, our study to promote, among the People under our Care, those Principles of Duty and Loyalty, which become true Christians, under the best of Governments. From the first Beginnings of this unnatural Rebellion, we have not been wanting in our best Endeavours to inspire them with a just Abhorrence of it, as threatening Destruction to every Thing that is worth our Care in Life; and to confirm them in a steadfast Adherence to all our valuable Interests, as depending, under God, on your Majesty and your Royal Family. And as we have the Pleasure to assure your Majesty, that the Body of our People remain firm and unshaken in their good Affection to the British Constitution, and to your happy Government, so we are persuaded, that Zeal must be more and more strengthened, by their continued Experience of the joyful Events of them; and the Horror of such a wicked Attempt to deprive us of these valuable Blessings, will inspire them with the strongest Ardour in the Defence of them.

We cease not to put up our most earnest Prayers to God, in the Name of our Lord Jesus Christ, in Behalf of your Majesty and your Royal Family, the late happy Increase of which, gives us great Mixture of Joy in our present melancholy Situation: That God may multiply his best Blessings upon you and on them; that you may have, more and more, the Glory of making a numerous People happy; and that your Goodness may, at length, conquer the Hearts of your most inveterate Enemies, and make them your willing Subjects; that the only wise God may direct your Councils, particularly at this Juncture; that the Lord of Hosts may prosper your Arms for defeating this wicked and unnatural Rebellion, so as, by his good Hand, it may issue in the further Establishment of your Throne, and procuring greater Strength to that excellent Constitution, which it was designed to subvert: And that, after a long and prosperous Reign upon Earth, you may enjoy that immortal Crown, which shall reward the true Servants of God and Benefactors of Mankind: And that your Royal Family may be the Glory of the British Throne; the Support of the Protestant Interest; the Guardians of the Liberties of Mankind; and the Terror of lawless Power, to latest Posterity.

The following Address of the Presbytry of Edinburgh, having been transmitted to the most Honourable the Marquess of Tweeddale, one of his Majesty's Principal Secretaries of State, has by him been presented to his Majesty: Which Address his Majesty was pleased to receive very graciously.

To the King's most Excellent Majesty,
The humble Address of the Presbytry of Edinburgh

Most Gracious Sovereign,
WE your Majesty's most dutiful and loyal Subjects, the Ministers and Elders of the Presbytry of Edinburgh, beg Leave to take this first Opportunity after our late melancholy Situation, to express our just Sense of the inestimable Blessings enjoyed under your Majesty's mild and legal Government; and our bitter Abhorrence of the present wicked and unnatural Conventions, raised and carried on in this Part of the united Kingdom, by a perverse rebellious Race, whom the tenderest Care of the most indulgent Government has not been able to oblige.

With the highest Satisfaction, Great Sir, we observed our Fellow-Subjects addressing your Throne, with one Voice, in Testimony of their unfeigned Loyalty and steady Affection to your Royal Person, while we were deprived of the like Access to your Majesty, by the Rebels unhappily becoming Masters of this City, notwithstanding of the prudent Care of the Commanders of the Castle, and the noble Ardour which fired the Inhabitants of our Perswasion for the Preservation of our Religion and Liberties.

Permit us humbly to assure your Majesty, that as we have the most grateful Remembrance of our Deliverance from Popery, Persecution, and arbitrary Power, at the glorious Revolution, brought about, under God, by King William the Third, of immortal Memory, and inviolably secured to us by the Accession of your Majesty's Royal Family to the Crown of these Realms; so it has always been, and ever shall be, our constant Care, to instill into the Minds of our People, the warmest Sense of the Value of these Blessings we have since enjoyed, and to excite in them the highest Indignation at all Attempts to disturb your Majesty's Government, and subvert our happy Constitution, which we are firmly resolved to maintain and defend to the utmost of our Power, against a popish Pretender and all his Adherents.

Permit us further to assure your Majesty, that the People under our pastoral Care, far from being seduced by the Arts of surrounding Rebels, are more and more rivetted in their Aversion to their wicked and traitorous Designs; more and more convinced, that their only Security for all that's dear and valuable to them as Men and Christians, intirely depends, under God, on the Preservation of your Majesty's Government, and our happy Constitution.

May our Gracious God firmly unite the Hearts of all your Subjects into a lively Sense of their great Happiness under the auspicious Reign of the best of Kings; and may the same kind Providence, that has so signally watched over your Royal Person, continue to preserve your Majesty, bless your Royal Family, direct your Councils, and prosper your Arms by Sea and Land, against the Enemies of our Religion and Liberty; and after your Majesty, may the Crown of these Kingdoms, the Defence of the Protestant Religion and the Liberties of Europe, descend to your Royal Issue to latest Posterity.

These, Great Sir, are, and ever shall be, the hearty Prayers of

May it please your Majesty,
Your Majesty's most dutiful, most loyal and most obedient Subjects,

The Ministers and Elders of the Presbytry of Edinburgh.

Edinburgh, Nov. 14, 1745.

The following Address of the Ministers of the Established Church of Scotland, in the City of Edinburgh, having been transmitted to the most Honourable the Marquess of Tweeddale, one of his Majesty's Principal Secretaries of State, has by him been presented to his Majesty; Which Address his Majesty was pleased to receive very graciously.

To the King's most Excellent Majesty,

The humble Address of the Ministers of the Established Church of Scotland, in the City of Edinburgh.

At

Most Gracious Sovereign,

WE your Majesty's most faithful and dutiful Subjects, the Ministers of Edinburgh, warmed with the highest Regard for your Majesty's Person and Government, and the utmost Abhorrence of the present impious and desperate Attempt to disturb your auspicious Reign, beg leave, in Testimony of our unfeigned Loyalty, to approach your Throne in the most humble Manner.

When we reflect with thankful Hearts on the watchful Care of Heaven, in delivering this Church and Nation from Popery and Slavery, by bringing to the Throne of these Realms, the great King William, whose Name shall be in everlasting Remembrance; when we adore the same kind Providence, in establishing at that happy Period the Protestant Interest on the surest and most lasting Foundations; when we recall the unspeakable Happiness of this Kingdom under the Reign of your Royal Father; and while we consider your Majesty as Guardian under God, of all our Liberties, sated as well as civil, we are equally surprized and afflicted to find, in any Part of your Dominions, Enemies to your Majesty and their own Happiness, and cannot think without Horror on the insatiate, rebellious few, whom the most solemn Oaths cannot bind, nor repeated Pardons reclaim from the Error of their Way.

But however ungrateful, however detestable the Conduct of some of our Countrymen, in the more remote Parts of the Island; the distinguished Zeal of the Church of Scotland for the Protestant Succession in your illustrious House, even in Times of the greatest Danger, is well known; and we will be allowed to say, that the Ministers of Edinburgh cannot be outdone by any in their unshaken Loyalty and invariable Attachment to the common Interest.

Happy, Great Sir, under your paternal Care, sensible of the many Marks of your Royal Favour, it has been our constant Endeavour to inculcate on the Minds of our People such lively Sentiments of Duty and Loyalty, and warmly to recommend such peaceable Dispositions as become the Subjects of the most gracious Prince, and Members of the best constituted civil Society.

Forgive us humbly to inform your Majesty of our Zeal to oppose the Beginnings of this unnatural Rebellion at the Expence of our Lives and Fortunes; forgive us to mention our united Exhortations to all our Hearers, to join with us in quitting themselves like Men and Protestants, in Support of the purest Religion and best of Causes; and our particular Care to guard their Minds against the various Arts used by a popish Pretender and his Abettors, once more to subject us to that Yoke of Bondage, which neither we nor our Fathers were able to bear.

And it is with the greatest Pleasure we can take upon us to assure your Majesty, that to whatever Cause the Progress of the Rebels may be assigned, Loyalty is the prevailing Principle and Character of the People under our Care, who don't count even Life itself too dear in Support of your Majesty, and our happy Constitution.

Permit us, Sir, humbly to add, that Vain were all the Efforts of the common Enemy, Vain! most gracious Sovereign, all their publick Promises and private Threatnings, to weaken our firm Attachment and steady Affection to your Royal Person; and when on this Account obliged, while the Rebels possessed this City, to forsake our Flocks and Families, our Country and Pulpits, we nevertheless ceased not to make Mention of you in our Prayers, that the Eternal God might be your Refuge, that the Wisdom which is from above might direct all your Councils; that true Christian Fortitude might inspire your Army and Navy; Success and Victory ever attend them; and that after a long and prosperous Reign over a free and happy People, your earthly Crown might descend to your latest Posterity, while you yourself shall be possessed of a Crown of Glory that fadeth not away.

We trust in the Merits of Jesus our exalted Prince and Saviour, that these and the many Prayers, which are daily offered to the God of all Graces, in behalf of your Majesty, will not return empty: We trust that the Lord of Hosts, whose Almighty Arm has so often brought us Salvation, will even now command Deliverance, and doubt not, but that the present unnatural Commotions, shall issue in the utter Confusion and Disappointment of all our Enemies at Home and Abroad, and in the further Security of your Majesty's Government, and the Happiness of your People.

These are the earnest Wishes, the ardent Prayers, and this the hopeful Prospect of,

May it please your Majesty,

Your Majesty's most dutiful, most obedient, and most loyal Subjects,

The Ministers of the City of Edinburgh

The following Address of the Bishop of the Diocese, Governor, Deputy Governors, Sheriffs, Justices of the Peace, Clergy and Gentlemen of the County of Londonderry, having been transmitted by his Excellency the Earl of Chesterfield, Lord Lieutenant of Ireland, to his Grace the Duke of Newcastle, one of his Majesty's Principal Secretaries of State, has by him been presented to his Majesty: Which Address his Majesty was pleased to receive very graciously.

To the King's most Excellent Majesty,

The Humble Address of the Bishop of the Diocese, Governor, Deputy Governors, Sheriffs, Justices of the Peace, Clergy and Gentlemen of the County of Londonderry.

WE your Majesty's faithful and loyal Subjects, humbly beg Leave to declare to your Majesty our Detestation and Abhorrence of this most unnatural Rebellion, carried on in a Part of your Majesty's Dominions, and to express our warm and sincere Sentiments of Fidelity to your Majesty's Government, and of Duty and Affection to your Royal Person.

Both the Remembrance of past Calamities, and the Sense of later Blessings, conspire to animate us with a Zeal and Courage equal to any Trials. We have always looked back on the Steadiness of our Ancestors under their Sufferings, in order to raise the same Spirit in our own Minds, whenever the same Cause should require it. And our repeated Oaths and most solemn Engagements voluntarily entered into for the Support of your Majesty's undoubted Right to your Crown, your Regard for our Properties, our Liberty and our Religion, all inseparably connected with it; and our Gratitude for the long uninterrupted Happiness that we have enjoyed during your Majesty's mild and gracious Reign over us, make us ready to act upon this Occasion like Men, thoroughly and deeply sensible of such strong and accumulated Obligations. We see, with inexpressible Comfort, the most unanimous Concurrence of your Majesty's good Subjects of England in opposing this desperate Enterprize; which, we rest assured, by your Majesty's known Wisdom and Fortitude, with the Blessing of God over a just and righteous Cause, will soon be turned to the Confusion of those who moved it. But, in all Events, we do firmly and solemnly devote our Persons, our Fortunes, and our Lives to your Majesty's Service; We will, under no Pretence whatsoever, either of Hopes or Threatnings, depart from this our Resolution. We are daily exerting out utmost Ability and Strength to prevent or defeat any Attempts of our declared or suspected Enemies. And we offer up our continual Prayers to Almighty God for the long Preservation of your Majesty; for the Peace and Security of your Kingdoms under you; and that the Crown of these Realms may be transmitted through latest Posterity in your Royal and Illustrious House.

The following Address of the Mayor, Recorder, Bailiffs, Aldermen, Burgesses and Commons of the ancient and loyal Corporation of Youghall, together with the Right Honourable their Representatives in Parliament, having been transmitted by his Excellency the Earl of Chesterfield, Lord Lieutenant of Ireland, to his Grace the Duke of Newcastle, one of his Majesty's Principal Secretaries of State, has by him been presented to his Majesty: Which Address his Majesty was pleased to receive very graciously.

To the King's most Excellent Majesty,

The humble Address of the Mayor, Recorder, Bailiffs, Aldermen, Burgesses and Commons of the ancient and loyal Corporation of Youghall, together with the Right Honourable their Representatives in Parliament.

WE your Majesty's most dutiful and loyal Subjects, the Mayor, Recorder and Bailiffs, Aldermen, Burgesses and Commons of your ancient Town and loyal Corporation of Youghall, together with the Right Honourable their Representatives in Parliament, do, with Hearts full of Joy, humbly beg Leave to congratulate your sacred Majesty on your safe Arrival in your British Dominions; and we do at the same Time express our most sensible Pleasure, on the Success of your Majesty's Arms on the Reduction of that important Island Cape Breton, whereby the Trade of your Majesty's Subjects will be greatly enlarged and secured; and that of France (your Majesty's most inveterate Enemy) as greatly injured and disappointed. Your Majesty's faithful Subjects do on this Occasion, in the most solemn Manner, declare our utmost Detestation and Abhorrence of the unnatural Rebellion, raised and now carrying on in Scotland against your sacred Person and Government, by an insatuated Party in Favour of a bigotted popish Pretender; and we do assure your Majesty, that we shall, with our utmost Power, sacrifice our Lives, and all that is dear to us, to stand by, support, and defend, your Majesty's sacred Person and Government, your undoubted Right to the Crown of these Realms, and the Succession to the same in your Royal House, against all Pretenders to the same, their secret and open Abettors, both at Home and Abroad; and that we shall be always prepared with Hearts and Hands, to draw our Swords in Defence of your Majesty, against every Enemy whatsoever, who shall dare to usurp, or even dispute dispute your Majesty's undoubted Right and Title to the Crowns of Great Britain and Ireland. In Testimony whereof we have subscribed our Names, and caused our common Seal of the Corporation to be hereunto affixed, this Twelfth Day of October, in the Nineteenth Year of your Majesty's most auspicious Reign.

Whitehall, November 20.

Letters from Penrith, dated the 16th, bring a Confirmation of the Surrender of Carlisle the Day before, to the Rebels, and give the following Account of the Occasion of it, viz. That for seven Days before, neither the Officers nor common Men of the Garrison had had scarce an Hour's Rest, being perpetually alarm'd by the Rebels, and that many of them were so sick, through their great Fatigue, that being out of all Hopes of a speedy Relief, they absolutely refused to hold out any longer, and Multitudes went off every Hour over the Walls, some of which fell into the Hands of the Rebels, till the Officers of many Companies were at last left with not above three or four Men; so that the Mayor and Corporation determin'd to hang out the White Flag, (though contrary to the Opinion and Protestation of Colonel Durand) and made the best Terms they could get for themselves; and that the Colonel was thereupon obliged to abandon the Castle, not having above seventy Invalids to defend it, and most of them unfit for Service, and the Rebels threatening, in Case of Refusal, to destroy the whole Town by Fire and Sword.

It is added in other Letters of the 17th, that the Garrison were permitted to go to their respective Homes.

Marshal Wade marched on Saturday last, at Ten o'Clock in the Morning, and was to go the first Night to Ovingham, and the second to Hexham.

Whitehall, November 21.

By Letters of the 19th from Penrith there is an Account, that at Three o'Clock in the Afternoon of the Day before, a Quarter-Master belonging to the Rebels came to that Town, and demanded Billets for two Squadrons, making 250 Horse, that were to be there that Night, and for 8000 Men more who were to be there the next Day. The Horse came in that Evening, and were counted by several People, but did not exceed half the Number they were said to be.

Whitehall, November 22.

Letters from the North of the 22th Instant, mention, that the Rebels entred Penrith on the 19th Instant.

Whitehall, November 22.

Letters from Marshal Wade, dated the 19th Instant at Hexham, bring Advice of the Arrival there, on the 17th at Midnight, of the Army under his Command, in order to have proceeded to the Relief of Carlisle, and to give Battle to the Rebels; but that having received Advice as well of the Surrender of that City and Castle on the 15th, as of the Advance of the Rebels to Penrith, and finding the Roads, thro' the great Quantity of Snow that had fallen, in a Manner impassable, it had been resolved, in a Council of War, to march the Army back, immediately to Newcastle.

Whitehall, November 23.

It appears by Letters just received from Colonel Durand, Commandant of Carlisle, that before the Surrender of that Place to the Rebels, he had Time to nail up ten Pieces of Cannon, from Four to Two Pounders, that were placed upon the Ramparts; that he had prevailed upon 400 Men, (besides the two Companies of Invalids) to join with him in defending the Castle, but that before Eight the next Morning they had changed their Resolution, and had left him to a Man, so that upon calling a Council of War, consisting of the Officers of the Invalids, it was unanimously agreed, that with the small Force remaining under his Orders, and which did not exceed 80 Men, many of them extremely infirm, it was not possible to defend the Castle.

Whitehall, November 23.

The King has been pleased to appoint his Royal Highness the Duke of Cumberland to take upon him the Command of the Army which is upon its March towards Lancashire, and to add thereto two Battalions of his Majesty's Foot Guards, who are set forward this Day to join the rest of the Troops of which that Army consists, and will be followed in a Day or two by his Royal Highness.

Whitehall, November 23.

Letters from Berwick mention, that an Account had been received there from General Guest of the taking of Mac Donald of Kenloch, a few Miles from Edinburgh; that he is the Gentleman at whose House the Pretender's Son lodged, and who was with him for two Months before any other joined him; that he was sent some Time ago to Sir Alexander Mac Donald, and the Laird of Mac Cloud, from the Pretender's Son, in order to prevail upon those two to join him, that being utterly refused, he was returning back to the Pretender's Son when taken.

The same Letters add, that there was a Letter found in his Pocket from Mr. Murray, the Pretender's Son's Secretary, telling him, that in case he did not succeed with Sir Alexander and Mac Cloud, he must be sure to give it out in the Country, as he passed along, that Sir Alexander Mac Donald and Mr. Mac Cloud were upon their March to join the Pretender's Son with 2000 Men well arm'd. That otherwise they could not keep the Army they had together, several of the Chiefs having declared, that if those two Clans did not join him, they would march back again.

Dublin, November 7.

On the Arrival of the good News of the safe Delivery of her Royal Highness the Princess of Wales of a Prince, the Great Guns in his Majesty's Park the Phoenix were immediately fired by Order of his Excellency the Lord Lieutenant, and answered by Volleys from the Regiments in Garrison here; and the Evening concluded with Bonfires, Illuminations, ringing of Bells, and all other Demonstrations of Joy.
