

carry on, encourage or abett any Practices or Designs destructive to our present most happy Establishment, under his Majesty King George.

And we mutually promise and engage to each other, that we will readily at all Times meet together, and enter into such proper and vigorous Measures, personally at our own Expence, for the carrying these our Resolutions into Execution, as shall Evidence to all the World, that our Hearts accompany our Words in this Association, and that we are equally affected with our present common Danger, and firmly determined to act on this important Occasion as becomes his Majesty's most dutiful and loyal Subjects.

The following Association of the Gentlemen of the King's County in the Kingdom of Ireland, having been transmitted by his Excellency the Earl of Chesterfield, Lord Lieutenant of Ireland, to his Grace the Duke of Newcastle, one of his Majesty's Principal Secretaries of State; has by him been presented to his Majesty: Which Association his Majesty was pleased to receive very graciously.

WE whose Names are hereunto subscribed, Gentlemen of the King's County, in his Majesty's loyal Kingdom of Ireland, being deeply affected with the most grateful Sense of the many Blessings we have enjoy'd under the just and gracious Government of his most sacred Majesty King George the Second; and being filled with the highest Detestation of the daring and execrable Attempts now carrying on in the Northern Parts of Great Britain, to subvert the Laws and Liberties of these so long free and happy Nations, and substitute in their Place the very worst of Slavery, Slavery under a popish Pretender, do associate ourselves in the most solemn Manner, and most sincerely promise and engage to stand by and support each other with our Lives and Fortunes, Power and Influence, in Defence of our most sacred Sovereign King George, his Government, and the Succession of the Royal House of Hanover, on which, under God, our Religion, happy Constitution and Liberty depend.

The following Address of the Sovereign, Burgeses, Clergy, Freemen, and other Principal Inhabitants of the Town of Kinsale, having been transmitted by his Excellency the Earl of Chesterfield, Lord Lieutenant of Ireland, to his Grace the Duke of Newcastle, one of his Majesty's Principal Secretaries of State, has by him been presented to his Majesty: Which Address his Majesty was pleased to receive very graciously.

To the King's most Excellent Majesty,

The humble Address of the Sovereign, Burgeses, Clergy, Freemen, and other Principal Inhabitants of the Town of Kinsale.

May it please your Majesty,

WE Sir, your most faithful and loyal Subjects, the Sovereign, Burgeses, Clergy, Freemen, and other principal Inhabitants of your Town of Kinsale, beg Leave to congratulate your Majesty on your safe Return to England.

We are fond at this Time to convince your Majesty of our Affection and unshaken Fidelity to your Royal Person and Government, when Traitors have dared to rebel against both, in the Cause of an abjur'd, popish Pretender.

So bold, so iniquitous an Attempt, must rouse up all who have either their King, their Country, or Religion at Heart, in Defence of these inestimable Blessings, which, as they are inseparably united, must stand or fall together.

We for our Parts are too sensible of our present Happiness under your Majesty's truly just and mild Administration, to endure a Thought of exchanging it for certain Misery, the unavoidable Consequence of Tyranny and Superstition.

And as we are engaged to your Majesty by all the Considerations of Duty, Interest and Affection, and by every Thing that is dear and valuable to us and our Posterity, so we beg Leave to assure your Majesty, that it is our fixed, determined and unalterable Resolution to stand by and support your Majesty with our whole Power, at the Hazard of our Lives and Fortunes, against all your Majesty's Enemies.

Berlin, Dec. 4, N. S. The Day before Yesterday, in the Morning, a Courier arrived from the reigning Prince of Anhalt, and brought Advice, that on the 30th past the Prussians had made themselves Masters of Leipzig. It is generally assured, that the Saxon Army in those Parts, which consisted only of 10,000 Men, (the rest, and the Corps under General Grune having marched off towards Dresden) did not think proper to make any Resistance against a superior Enemy, and to expose by it the Suburbs of Leipzig and the Town itself to be plundered. That a Regiment under General Sibilski, covered the Retreat in a Redoubt, where it made a very gallant Defence, in which it is said the General was mortally wounded; and that afterwards it joined the said Corps without almost any Loss on its Side. The Prince of Anhalt designed to proceed as Yesterday on his March towards Dresden, whither his Prussian Majesty's Army is likewise moving; and as the Saxons have assembled all their Force in and about Dresden,
